FOUR MEN BREAK JAIL

CUT THROUGH WROUGHT IRON HASP WITH A CASE KNIFE.

Delivery From County Jail at Independence Some Time Saturday Night-One Prisoner Returned to Jail by His Father.

A daring jail escape was effected at In-dependence Saturday night by Fayette Orchard. Otis Stid and Thomas Howard, alian nas Hogan, and Charles Ellis, colored Orchard was brought into the Kansas City jail yesterday by his father and made the st that he be kept there, as he claimed to fear the prisoners would punish him he were taken back to Independence. Stid returned and gave himself up, but Hogan and Ellis are still at large. It is not known at swhat hour the men broke out. They were seen in Kansas City at 3 o'clock Sunday morning. The only instrument they had to work with, so far as known, was a case knife, with which they cut through the wrought iron hasp that fastened the door of the cellroom. The padlock was an old-fashioned affair, but no attempt was made to pick it. The hasp was a quarter of an inch thick and two inches wide.

The walls of the prison are of rock and it would have been impossible to cut through the big stones, but the brick chimney oftered the means of escaping after the men had reached the cellroom. The quartette climbed up the chimney fine and on reaching the top jumped down onto a shed and thence to the ground. The jail delivery was not discovered until yesterday morning. Stid returned and gave himself up, but Ho-

ing. omas Hogan was held for burglary and Thomas Hogan was held for burglary and grand larceny, having been arrested February 21 by Detectives McHale and Hewitt. C. H. Converse, who was implicated in the same affair, and who was in jail at Independence when the delivery occurred, was brought up yesterday and lodged in the county jail for safe keeping. Charles Ellis, the negro, was arrested in Independence and given a year in jail for some petty offense. Stid was arrested January 14 for grand larceny and Orchard, a boy of 18, was arrested January 17 on the same charge and given a reform school sentence.

A HEROINE UNREWARDED.

Prisoner Captured by Miss Louise Nugent Among the Four Who Broke Jail.

The cross of the Legion of Honor has been pinned upon the breast of more than one woman, by no less a personage than the First Consul, the great Napoleon, for acts not one whit more deserving of recog-mition than that placed to the credit of Miss Louise Nugent, of 2627 East Eleventh street, who, on January II, delivered over to a police officer that notorious ex-convict and daylight burglar, Thomas Howard, alias Thomas Hogan, who escaped from the county jail at Independence Sunday

Hogan was known as a "daylight burgla.;" his plan being to call at a house during the absence of the family, in the daytime, and get away before the family during the absence of the family, in the daytime, and get away before the family returned. It was in attempting to work this scheme on January 12, when Miss Nugent, 17 yeurs of age, and a student in the senior class in St. Theresa's academy, distinguished herself by causing his arrest, in which she exhibited a marvelous degree of nerve and presence of mind.

On the date named, Hogan, who is a smail, frail, sickly man, tripped lightly up the steps of the residence next door to the Nugent home and rang the bell. He was satisfied in advance that there was no one at home. Had anyone responded he would have asked if Mr. Smith lived there, or some equally convenient question, and made a graceful retrent. No one came to the door, however, and whipping out a key he inserted it in the lock, pressed his body close to the door and in a jiffy had it open. Placing his foot in the aperture he hesitated a moment, took a hasty lool up and down the street, and then indulged in a pantomime, as if some one had replied to his ring and was shaking hands with him. Then he stepped inside.

side. Miss Nugent had been an interested spectator of the whole proceeding and knowing that the neighbors were not at home was quick to size up the situation and act. She ran around to the door through which Hogan had just disappeared and going in discovered that he was up stairs. The burgiar leaped from the second story window, ran to the alley back ond story window, ran to the alley back of the house and thence took a short cut to the street. Miss Nugent dashed back through the front door, ran to the next street corner and met the fellow coming up the sidewalk.

"Did you see a burglar running away?" he asked.

"Did you see a burglar running away?" he asked.
"No," was the reply, and Hogan then said, "Come along and we will hunt him together."

They went to the next corner, when the ex-convict said, "Now, you go this way and I'll go that."
"No," said Miss Nugent, "He might get away from one of us. We will stay together and may catch him." So they ran on together until they came across a policeman, when Miss Nugent gave the fallow into custody.

His case was set for trial last Thursday, but about that time Miss Nugent, who was an aspirant for class honors, had her examinations coming on, which she could not miss without endangering her class standing. She, therefore, wrote a note to Deputy Prosecuting Attorney Tom Mastin, stating the circumstances and asking him to do what he could in her behalf. He had the case continued to this morning and yesterday morning Hogan disappeared through the chimney of the Independence jail.

considerably more than "three sheets in the wind."

It is said that he turned Mrs. Sheffield out in the street and with a club kept her from getting back indoors, exposing her to the fury of the elements. She was not seriously injured by the hall, but Mr. Sheffield, on the other hand, was not improved in condition by the violence of wind, rain and ice. The police say that he staggered out and fell. He says the police knocked him down and jumped on him.

Be that as it may, he was taken to the Central station, too badly knocked out to have his wounds attended to. Last night the police surgeon sewed up a cut two and a half inches long on the left side of his forehead and this morning Police Judge Burnham will do the rest.

BENEATH AN OAK TREE.

Remains of Samuel Ely Laid Beside His Children's Graves in Rosedale.

Beneath the spreading branches of gnarled and knotted oak tree in the yard surrounding his home, the body of Samuel Ely, a Rosedale dairyman, was laid to rest beside the graves of two of his children, yesterday afternoon. Samuel Ely was a spiritualist while he lived and the men and women of his faith who had known him gathered within the shadow of the ancient oak, unmindful of the rain, pay their last tribute of respect for their departed friend. There is no ing in Rosedale who remembers the time when the tree which holds its branches above the graves of the father and his children did not grow from the little knoll

Samuel Ely was 62 years old when he died last Wednesday from bronchitis. Twenty-eight years ago he became a resident of Rosedale, continuing in the bus ness of a dairyman in which he had previously established himself. He was ness of a dairyman in which he had previously established himself. He was married and was the father of a family. Fortune smiled on him and he began to accumulate a comfortable competence. Three years of his residence in Rosedale passed before the first sorrow cast its shadow over his home. Two of his children died. At the base of the old oak tree two graves were dug and the children who had many times sent their childish laughter ringing through its branches were buried within its grateful shade. It was then that Samuel Ely gave the name of the "Children's Oak" to the tree.

For a quarter of a century Samuel Ely and his wife watched tenderly over the graves of their departed children, and often did they express the wish that their last sleep should be beside them. The father, during his last hours repeated his desire, to be buried beneath the tree. The burial services were beautiful in their simplicity. There were no formalities. Cecil Gates, Johnson Clark, Mrs. Dr. Hammond and other spiritualists spoke short eulogies. A choir sang "Nearer My God, to Thee," and "Beautiful Isles of the Bye and Bye." A violin solo was played by Mr. Chandler, and the body, resting within the casket on a bed of flowers, was taken by the pallbearers from the house to the grave beneath the "Children's Oak" and buried as Samuel Ely had desired. His widow, two sons and a daughter survive him.

MOORE FOR BRIGADIER

PRIVATE TELEGRAM PREDICTS HIS NOMINATION TO-DAY.

First and Second Regiments of Missouri Troops Ordered to Chickamauga-Several Cases of Sickness in Camp.

JEFFERSON BARRACKS, MO., May 15. -(Special.) The First and Second regi-ments, Missouri voluntéers, were this afternoon ordered to move to Chickamauga and craveling rations. Colonel Baldorf, of the First, and Colonel Caffee, of the Second, said to-night after a conference with Lieutenant Moore, the post commissary, that they would move Tuesday, just a week from the time the first order to move was received. It developed to-day that the policy of the war department is to put at least one regular army officer with each regiment of volunteers. Lieutenant Hardeman of the Tenth cavalry, has received the appointment of major in the regiment. Lieutenant Moore, of the Twen ty-third infantry, will be junior major of the Fifth regiment. Both have had complete charge of the work of mustering in and supplying the five regiments, and have become universally popular. Both are West Point graduates.

Colonel Gross has appointed Lieutenant Slavens, of the Fourth cavalry, a native of Missouri, now stationed at Fort Leavenworth, major of the Third battalion of the Third.

A private telegram was received here today stating that General Milton Moore's name would be sent to the senate to-morrow mornin- for confirmation as brigadier general of the Missouri volunteers. The officers of the regiments now feel confident the event General Moore receives the ap-pointment, ex-Congressman Charles Morgan, of Lamar, will undoubtedly be elected colonel of the Fifth.

Orders to move the Third regiment are expected to arrive to-morrow. All unnecessary work was avoided in camp to-day. Chaplain Kerlin, of the Third, and Chaplain Coleman, of the Fifth, preached their first sermons in the field this morning at 10:30. Colonel Gross placed shoulder straps on Sergeant Major F. F. F. Russell, First Sergeant Charles A. Dayton, of Company H, and First Sergeant E. V. Tomy, of Company I, making them battalion adjutants with the rank and pay of second lieutenants. The promotions

A case of typhold fever has developed in the camp of the Fourth regiment. Private Mills Orr, Company B, Fifth regiment, was taken to the barracks hospital this morning, suffering with a severe attack of acute pneumonia. C. E. Gaines, Company F, Fifth regiment, was quarantined outside the guard lines in a tent to-night with a case of measles fully developed. Robert L. Merchant, Company F, Third regiment, is confined in the hospital with malarial fever. Captain O'Brien, Company A. Fifth regiment: Lieutenant Charles Sutton, Lieutenant Till and Lieutenant Cobb, were to-day presented with handsome swords by Rich ard Slater, representing the Times. A large number of Kansas Cityans were in camp to-day visiting. Quite a large numher of politicians from over the state conferred with patriotic candidates to serve their country in high offices of the Fifth regiment.

Taps to-night interrupted wild scenes of enthusiasm in all the camps. Bands played patriotic airs and men sang and cheered for the president, for Dewey, for Alger and for their own officers. They are anxious to get into the midst of the fray at E. E. EASTON.

HEISEY VOLUNTEERS READY. Will Meet To-night in the Kansas City, Kas., Armory and Elect Their Officers.

The new company of Kansas volunteers recently organized in Kansas City, Kas. by City License Inspector J. S. Helsey will hold a meeting to-night in the Armory and proceed to elect officers. Mr. Heisey will doubtless be honored with election as captain. He organized the company, which is composed of well known men who will make gallant soldiers, and as he is very proficient in military tactics his election to the position of captain is considered to be to the best interests of the company.

The company is drilling regularly and it is generally believed that it will be mustered into service in the very near future. The members of the company are condent that the president will soon issue a second proclamation for more volunteers and Mr. Helsey's company will certainly form a portion of the Kansas volunteers. Mr. John C. Small, a well known Kansas City, Kas., newspaper man, is being favorably spoken of for first or second lleutenant. He served several years in the Texas state militia and is well qualified for the position. There are several candidates for all of the commissioned offices and the election promises to be quite interesting. proficient in military tactics his election

Transatlantic News.

Reuter's Telegrams, the Direct and Mackey's Cables supply the reading and commercial public on this side of the Atlantic with faithful news. They almost invariably coincide in accuracy and speed of arrival, and the "special" cablegrams in the papers differ little from those sent out by the Associated Press. Ocean communication with the other side has also received immense impetus through the improvement of steam vessels, and the increase of their size and motive power. Passengers across the Atlantic are, in spite of splendid accommodations and the lessened vibration by improvement in the hull of steam vessels, always liable to sea sickness. The nausea which this complaint produces is invariably curable with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which quiets and invigorates the stomach, and relieves billiousness and an irregular state of the bowels. Malaria and the disorders caused by changes of climate, exposure in inclement weather and unusual-diet are also remedied by this useful companion of the traveler and tourist.

The grounds upon which the enemies of Superintendent Hanks base their fight are that he is incompetent to hold the position. It is hard to tell just what the superintendent fight will develop. As a defense against the charges of incompetency Buperintendent Hanks will offer some of the diplomas which he has been awarded by different educational institutions. He holds the degree of bachelor of philosophy from the West Kentucky college; the degree of doctor of philosophy from Hartford college, of Hartford, Ky.; a graduate's certificate from the National normal, of Lebanon, O., and is a graduate in analytical chemistry and practical assaying from the Kansas City College of Pharmacy. THE PILGRIMS AT DELFSHAVEN Consul Listoe Unearths Some Interesting History About Them.

Consul Listoe, at Rotterdam, has furnished to the state department an interesting contribution to early American history, having secured a translation of the records kept by the old Reform Church of Delfshaven, from which the Pilgrim Fathers sailed to America. The record from the old town of William the Silent says regarding the curious emigration which had such an influence in American electivestics.

says regarding the curious emigration which had such an influence in American civilization:

"On the 22d of July of the year 1620 the pier of Delfshaven was crowded with people. A vessel was riding at anchor—the Bpeedwell—waiting for a large number of passengers. A severe act of parliament, which had been passed in 1592 in England, caused a cruel persecution of the so-called Puritans. Many of them fied to the hospitable Netherlands, and, having settled at Leyden, they chose for their minister the Rev. Robinson, belonging to their own church and residing in this country since 1907. They gloried in bearing the name of 'Pilgrims.' Their stay at Leyden lasted twelve years. As for religious freedom and toleration, they rejoiced in favorable circumstances, the municipal government having not the slightest reason to complain of their conduct, but they had hard work in providing for their subsistence.

"The fear of being pressed into the military service on account of the war with Spain and the painful feeling of exile made them resolve to found a colony in America. A vessel was brought and lay ready to sail on the above mentioned date. The whole congregation, those who were to leave for America and the rest, who were to stay behind waiting for a subsequent opportunity, was assembled on the quay.

"The inhabitants of Delfshaven beheld a quent opportunity, was assembled on the quay.

"The inhabitants of Delfshaven beheld a scene which should never be forgotten. This scene of parting was touching, but first, the Rev. Robinson, kneeling down, sent up a feeling prayer, intrusting to the Lord and His Grace all the members of his church, as well as those now departing as those who hoped to follow their brethren before long.
"Once more embracing each other, they bade farewell, for many of them the last farewell on earth, and the Speedwell weighed anchor, steering to Southampton, where another ship, the Mayflower, was waiting to take them to America. They arrived there safe and sound and founded New Plymouth."

BAD YEAR FOR BOSSES

The board of education of Kansas City, NEXT LEGISLATURE TOO IMPORTANT FOR THEM TO RULE.

> It Will Revise the Statutes-Ex-Gov ernor Crittenden May Be a Candidate for Legislative Honors-State University an Issue.

Politicians of both parties in many por dons of the state are paying close attention to the selection of legislative candidates for the fall election owing to the fact that the next session of the legisla-ture is the revising session and many highly important matters will come up for onsideration. There will be a hot race for speaker of the house and there will be many opportunities for doing highly creditable and valuable work for the people. Even the Democratic party has been seized with the desire to have a care in the selection of its lawmakers and in several of the counties the small fry politi-cians who would regulate by legislation all things material have been pushed aside and older and more competent men have been chosen. This is true in Clay county where the Farmers' Club candidate has been relegated and the Democrats have prac-tically agreed to elect Colonel D. C. Allen, one of the oldest citizens and ablest atcorneys of the county. Colonel Allen repretorneys of the county. Colonel Allen represents the old style Democracy. He is a cultured and able man whose long experience in legal matters and public affairs fits him well for the duties of the next session and it is doubtful if there is in Clay county a Democrat who would more worthily represent the dominant party. His nomination is conceded and a Democratic nomination carries with it a certainty of election in that county. lection in that county.

nomination carries with it a certainty of election in that county.

There is a rumor in Kansas City that has gained some circulation that a similar effort will be made here and that ex-Governor T. T. Crittenden has been selected as one man who would suit the party purposes for the revising session. Whether the report is true or not it bears many evidences of genuineness. It is no secret that Governor Crittenden has still much political ambition. When he was governor he had a cherished plan to provide for the state university a handsome and complete endowment fund that would place that school on a par with the university of any other state. He has not allowed that desire to grow less during the years that have followed his gubernatorial life and it is quite within the probabilities that he would gladly embrace an opportunity that would be offered by the session and make the race. The fact that he took so important a part in the city campaign and so publicly expressed his admiration for the superb leadership of Joe Shannon also tends to establish the belief that the report is true and that Shannon in return for this certificate of political morality will throw his support to him for whatever he would desire.

The chief thing that will be in the way of the realization of his desires is the fact that the Republicans being so strongly united will have more than a fighting chance in the county his fall and will get a large share of the rewards, possibly capture the county, and in that event will select the legislative material itself.

capture the county, and in that event will select the legislative material itself.

There is being cultivated all over the state among the Democratic politicians the belief that a policy of liberality with the state university would be of value to the dominant party and the friends of the university are pushing that idea strongly wherever they have the opportunity. The belief that the state ought to make its own educational institutions just as good as can be found and fully equal to all demands of the state, is one that takes root easily when given a chance and it is a doctrine that can be easily and strongly presented to voters. It appeals with much force to the state pride and that is claimed to be a strong trait of Democratic character. There are plenty of Democratis in Kansas City who are quick to say that the party must drop some of its ancient ideas and try to keep step to the music of the times if it hopes much longer to retain political charge of the state. They point to the fact that they have been forced to fuse with the Populists to hold themselves in power once and with the growth of the times against some of their ancient traditions they will require a new cry, some new plan to attract attention or the growth of the sentiment of progress in the state will destroy their political prestige. Many of the leading Democratis have pointed out the fact that the proposition to enlarge the educational facilities of the state and build up the university would be a doctrine far more attractive and strengthening than to plan for the elevation of Lon Stephens to the senate. The cry for better education would also serve as a screen behind which the misfits of the party might find that obscurity into which many Democrats hope they will fall.

The plan of the Democratic officeholders

The plan of the Democratic officeholders dictating their successors is one matter that is certain to cause an abundance of trouble and lead to much contention in the party. The evil to the party of such a course has been so shockingly portrayed in the action of Governor Stone dictating the election of Lon Stephens that the doctrine is highly represent to meet of the informed. election of Lon Stephens that the doctrine is highly repugnant to most of the informed members of that party. It may act as a boomerang that will wipe out a lot of the men now in office at Jefferson City. Stephens is trying to follow in Stone's footsteps but the tracks are a long ways apart for a short man to get his feet in.

The scramble for the Democratic nomination for congress in the Third district to succeed Congressman Dockery, who is to retire and run for governor, has resulted in bringing out a man from every country to the control of the contro ed in bringing out a man from every county who is anxious to serve the Democratic party. The scramble is so wild that it would be difficult to pick a leader as yet. John Dougherty, of Clay county, hopes to win out, but the snap convention of Clay county will hurt his chances very much although he has some strength. The northern portion of the district will try hard to get the candidate and may succeed.

There are three aspirants for the Republican nomination there. The feeling is that with a new candidate on the Democratic ticket the Republicans have a good fighting chance to win in the district. No other Democrat of the district will possess the peculiar elements of vote getting strength that Mr. Dockery has acquired and knows so well how to use. Of the Republicans "Billy" Leeper, of Caldwell county, is getting very general mention over the district and is a strong vote getter and a winning campaigner. He will have strength in the convention and his friends claim he is a winner. Dr. M. M. Campbell, of Bethany, is also a probable candidate and Boyd Dudley, of Gallatin, one of the active young workers of the party, is said to be in training for the race. Whichever of the men is selected will be able to make the race a very interesting one for the man who tries to follow

HIGHER PRICES FOR WHISKY. Sharp Advances in Rye and Malt Increase the Cost to the Distiller.

Internal Revenue Collector Kellogg has been informed by one of the largest dis-tillers of the district that he was going to shut down his still and stop manufactur-ing whisky just as soon as he used up the supplies on hand. He gave as a reason that the continued heavy advance in the price of rye and malt made the risk to the trade too great and he was quite willing for some one else to take the chances. He said that rye had gone from 46 cents to 78 cents per bushel and that jump was far too great and as mait had gone up about one-quarter in price he was quite willing to retire. The price of corn is also going slowly up the scale and whisky made now must be sold at war prices and not at the low prices that have prevailed for so long in the West. The distiller said there was a nice thing in the situation for the man who had a big stock of wet goods on hand. rade too great and he was quite willing

THE NEWS AT LEAVENWORTH.

Soldiers' Home.

When the Republican state convention meets at Hutchinson to nominate officers to be voted for at the general election next fall Leavenworth will present a candidate for associate justice of the supreme court. The candidate who will be named from Leavenworth, for this position, is Hon. William A. Porter, who has been an active member of the Leavenworth bar for the past eighteen years and combines all the elements necessary to fill this dignified position. Mr. Porter was born in Ohio in 1852, and is therefore in his 47th year-just in the vigor of manhood and ripe with the experience of almost one-fifth of a century. He is strong, both mentally and physically, and above all has been a life-long Republican, and would fill the position to which he aspires with dignity and reflect great credit on the state. He is held in such esteem by his associates of the Leavenworth bar that he is always elected judge pro tem of the district court, in the absence of Judge Myers.

Mr. Porter was a member of the 1830 law class of the University of Michigan and therefore a classmate of G. D. Meiklejohn, assistant secretary of war. He came to Kansas in 1869, casting his first vote in Miami county and has never cast a vote outside of the state. He is fortunate in having a large acquaintance all over Kansas and wherever he goes he makes friends. Mr. Porter is not making an active canvass for associate justice, beleving that the position is of such dignity as to preclude the ordinary scramble which is so frequently induged in for political preferment. He has attended no conventions yet, but has received flattering letters from all over the state. He will go to Hutchinson and open headquarters at room II, Midland hotel, where his friends will all be welcomed. The state convention will make no mistake in selecting William A. Porter for associate justice, and his nomination will add strength to the rest of the ticket.

As told in The Journal a few days ago, there is a lack of harmony between a large proportion of the Congregational church membership and the pastor, Rev. Mr. Charles Hawley Fenn. When the membership, by vote, refused to accept Rev. Mr. W. B. Buck as Mr. Fenn's substitute during the latter's vacation and declined to receive his resignation by a majority of but one vote, Mr. Fenn took this action as expressive of a lack of confidence in him. He has therefore decided to sever the relationship and has written the church authorities that he will give up the pastorate on June 1. A meeting of the official board and members of the church will be held next Wednesday evening when the letter will be read and some action taken. Mr. Fenn's health precludes him from active work for the present and he will probably remain here until he recovers.

Inspection at Soldiers' Home.

An interesting feature at the Soldiers' home Sunday morning was the inspection which was one of the most thorough held at the Western branch for years. Every member on the rolls, not absent on furlough, had to be present and stand by the side of his bed with all the government clothing he had drawn spread on top of his cot in full view of the inspectors or else account for the same as wearing appeared on his person. When the order for inspection was published there was a trembling and shaking among some of the members, who were averse to expose to public gaze their shirts, drawers, stockings, pants, vests, coats and towels and such other articles as go to make up the toilet of the genus homo.

Members of the home are allowed a certain number of articles of clothing, such as one cap, one hat, one pair of shoes, one pair of pants and one blouse, every twelve months; then one shirt and one pair of drawers, together with two pairs of socks, every six months. If, during the inspection, any one of these articles are not visible to the naked eye of the inspectors, or its absence satisfactorily explained, the definquent will have to appear before Governor Rowland and explain matters as to the missing articles. The inspection was conducted by Governor Rowland and his staff. Inspection at Soldiers' Home.

The present gas company has held a monopoly for furnishing gas to consumers and has been charging extortionate rates, while at the same time the gas has been of a cheap quality. Recently a new company was organized, which announced that it proposed to furnish a good article of gas at $1 per 1,000 feet. A charter was secured from the secretary of state and the company began making preparations for active work, and had virtually selected a site for their plant. The new company made a thorough canvass of the city and secured enough subscribers to guarantee secured enough subscribers to guarantee a profitable return for capital invested. This has so alarmed the old company that yesterday it announced that from June 1 it would furnish gas to consumers for $1 per 1,000. This is evidently a move to head off further work by the new company, but whether it proves successful or not remains to be seen.

Lieutenant Hausserman, of the Twentieth Kansas volunteer infantry, came over Saturday night to bid his family good-by, before starting to join Rear Admiral Dewey. He stated that the Leavenworth company was in the best of health and spirits and highly elasted over the prospects of their Western trip. He returned to Camp Leedy last night.

Two small fires kept the fire department busy for a while early yesterday morning. The first was at the rectory of the Episcopal church, where a boy had gone into the cellar to get kindling, leaving the candle burning, setting fire to some kindling. The second was at Swart's tailor shop on North Fifth street, caused by a leaking gasoline stove. In both instances the fire was extinguished without any material damage.

There has been an increase in membership at the Soldiers' home during the past week. Yesterday the rolls showed a membership of 3,313. Of these 339 are on the sicklist, 741 absent with leave and twelve absent without leave. There are thirty old veterans in temporary quarters, awaiting final action on their application for admission, and thirty-three members are obliged to sleep on the floor for lack of accommodations.

An excursion train from Atchison and points north brought a number of visitors into the city yesterday. They came expecting to see the volunteers, but were disappointed when they found that the Kansis regiments were still at Topeka. The disagreeable weather also added much to their discomfort.

The board of directors of the Y. M. C. A. will meet Tuesday evening to canvass the situation and decide whether to keep the rooms open or not. Sixty-five new names have been added to the membership list, and it is expected that this number will soon be increased to 100.
